Sharing joint financial resources means contributing to the household income and/or benefiting from the household income. Persons belonging in the household are household members. A household may also consist of one member only. Flatmates who live in the same dwelling and share only dwelling-related expenses but do not share their income are not considered to be a single household. Household members are people who share in the household's expenses, live in the common dwelling and hold no permanent residence elsewhere. Temporarily absent persons should be considered household members if they: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - have no other main dwelling, have retained economic ties with the household and their absence is shorter than one year; - are children absent due to studies or a spouse/partner absent due to work.
